MARKET MAKES LARGE GAINS

New York Market Goes Up on Extensive Buying by Bankers—No Copper Sold Under 25 1/4 Cents in this Country—All Coppers Strong.

(By I. N. Kinsey)
GLOBE, April 5.—Hutton & Co. of New York say: Bullish opinions carried on today on an extensive scale by bankers and heavy gains were made throughout the active stocks. It really seems unnecessary to explain cause of advance, as the only factor was the concerted buying of bankers which raised values. Conditions at Washington were ignored as being without moment.
Paine of Boston Says: Our market today was somewhat slow in responding to the advance in the New York market, but gains were made in principal stocks, such as Copper Range, North Butte, Osceola, Old Dominion, etc. Speculators in the London metal market have turned and good advances will be made from day to day and looks as if recent raid was bear manipulation. We hear of no important sales of copper being made in this country under 25 1/4 cents. Money is getting easier, and higher level will be reached on all better class of stocks. Do not look for any reaction of any consequence. Amalgamated and Anaconda act as if some party was working up a good short interest in them and they may be made to cover several points higher.
Superior & Boston was in good demand today around $4, sales being made at this figure, but not any higher, as reported, except in very small lots.

Money, 2 per cent.

(By H. H. Bru Co.)
GLOBE, April 5.—Today's market shows great strength and all stocks as a whole closed much higher than for some time in the past. The market is predicted to reach the figure before the crash and from the outlook now this may be true. The money market both here and abroad is reported again normal and all industries in full operation. Anaconda paid its quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share, which equals 12 per cent on its present market price. Old Dominion was the feature of the day. It opened at $55 and closed at $56 asked and may sell much higher tomorrow. Anaconda and Old Dominion are among the best buys as investment stocks. Arizona Commercial closed at $26 and I look for this stock to be selling around $36 within a short time.

The Wife's Right of Search
There has just died that upright judge who decided that a wife had a right "to go through her husband's pockets." He presided in a western state, but was a native Georgian, and all the cyclones of the breezy west had not blown out of him his inherited ideas of chivalry to women.
As a reason for his famous decision he gave that when a man married a woman he thereby conferred upon her a right to search his pockets in quest of change. There are some strong arguments to sustain this view. In many marriages the man says: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," and if this does not justify his wife in taking what is hers, what would?
Again, man and wife are one, and what one owns one has a right to forage on. Under the patriarchal institutions of slavery Sambo argued thus: "I belong to marster, and this pig belongs to marster, therefore I have a right to take the pig." With great respect, this illustration may be analogized.
Still further, there is the famous precedent of Gretchen and her father confessor, Hubert. Was it wrong for Gretchen to eliminate a small coin out of the trousers pocket of her sleeping Hans? It appearing that Hans made cents, the good man's unhesitating opinion was that the taking was entirely lawful and proper. If the senior member of the firm got 75 per cent of the daily assets, why wasn't the junior entitled to 25?
A "swipe," therefore—to use a very inelegant term in consideration of its great expressiveness—of one-fourth may be regarded as about right.
Out of every dollar a quarter, out of every 50 cents a dime, and if there is only a dime, let her take half. She will invest the nickel in something useful, as, say, a paper of pins, with which she will bestrew the face of the earth for a month; while he will gulp it up in a minute in a glass of beer he were better without.—Augusta Chronicle.

Pointed Paragraphs
"After all," remarked Mrs. Inswim, "home is the dearest spot on earth."
"It is," asked her husband, who was engaged in auditing the month's bills.—Columbus Dispatch.

All men are animals—and some of them are car-seat bogs.
There's usually a wide gap between promise and performance.

A $10 Bill in a Mail Box

An Indianapolis letter carrier recently found a crisp $10 bill in one of the mail boxes on his route. There was no scrap of writing or anything to indicate why it had been deposited there. The carrier turned the bill over to Postmaster Bennett, who wrote to the department at Washington to ascertain what disposition should be made of it. The first assistant to the postmaster general answered that there was no rule to cover such a singular case, and that the finder would have to be governed by the same laws that govern the return of articles or things of value found anywhere else. This means that the letter carrier will keep the money unless a claimant appears and identifies the bill.

Postoffice officials are perplexed in wondering why any person should deposit a bank note in a mail box. Odd articles are often found in the boxes, but it is seldom that a thing of real value is discovered.—Indianapolis News.
